Answer By Hitler To Roosevelt Friday

Henderson Is Waiting To See Von Ribbentrop

BERLIN, April 25.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, taking the British prime minister at his word that Sir Neville Henderson is charged with no special mission, was in no hurry to receive his Britannic majesty's ambassador today.

The foreign minister's office informed the British embassy that Ribbentrop would not be in today.

A Wilhelmstrasse spokesman pointed out that the foreign minister is a very busy man these days, what with supplying information to Chancellor Hitler for his reichstag speech Friday, preparing himself for negotiations with the Yugoslav foreign minister who is to arrive today, and arranging for an approaching visit of the Hungarian premier and his foreign minister.

It seemed obvious to inquiring correspondents that Henderson must either contradict Prime Minister Chamberlain, who told the House of Commons yesterday that the ambassador's resuming his post had "no special significance," or risk not being received before the reichstag speech is delivered, and possibly not before May day exercises.

Henderson, meanwhile, received the Italian ambassador to Berlin, Bernardo D. Attolico. The British embassy spokesman declined to disclose the purpose of the visit.

The situation immediately recalled to observers a similar one last September.

Henderson at that time, when the Czechoslovak crisis was at a high pitch, had to cool his heels for days without being able to see Hitler, reported too busy to see anybody on routine matters.

Those in Hitler's entourage then frankly said that if Henderson had intended once again to deliver a British warning against invasion of Czechoslovakia his visit would achieve nothing constructive.

Henderson was reported then as saying he had no new proposals to make.

History May Repeat
Apparently history was to repeat itself. Unless the envoy intimates he has a special message, Wilhelmstrasse will be in no hurry to receive him.

German news broadcasts in Afrikaans, the language of the Dutch settlers of the Union of South Africa, and Arabic were added to reading of news in English twice a day from German short wave stations.

It was announced that similar news broadcasts in other languages would be started whenever the need arose.

Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, mockingly asked today whether President Roosevelt would guarantee not to "attack Haiti and San Domingo during the next 25 years."

Renewing an intensive anti-Roosevelt campaign, the Beobachter ridiculed the United States president for worrying about "so many states, the names of which many Americans heard for the first time from the jolly non-aggression list," in his message to the fuhrer proposing peace guarantees to 31 nations.

The newspaper accused the president of attempting to impute "to other countries all possible plans for conquest . . . while his own appetite for foreign territorial possessions unveils itself."

"We ask him therefore: Will he pledge himself not to direct any attack upon Haiti, San Domingo (The Dominican Republic) and the Dutch possessions in the West Indies which now have become revealed as the object of American desirability?"

(The Beobachter's reference apparently was to a proposal of Senator Lundeen of Minnesota that the United States purchase Greenland and certain Netherlands possessions near the Panama canal for defense bases.)

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the fuhrer would deliver his answer to the president early Friday afternoon instead of in the evening as has been customary when he addresses the reichstag.

The reichstag will be convened at noon (5 a. m., CST).
Hitler's desire to reach as large a part of the world as possible was given as a reason for the move.

Wayne Ponder, 12, was found in his room with a .22 caliber bullet wound in his head. There was a note addressed to his father.

Ponder, pleading guilty before a U. S. commissioner, was placed under $5,000 bond today.

Extra Taxes To Build Defense

British Impose Them In A Huge Peace Budget

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—The British government placed most of the burden of extra taxation to meet its staggering rearmament bill upon the motorist, the smoker, and the wealthy today, but allayed fears of the masses by not boosting the basic income tax.

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, presented to Parliament a budget of 1,300,000,000 pounds ($6,500,000,000) of which nearly half, 630,000,000 pounds ($3,150,000,000) is for defense.

Perhaps more than that figure, Sir John said, would be spent for defense during the fiscal year which began April 1.

The chancellor, introducing the biggest peace-time budget in British history, announced additional indirect taxes on tobacco, sugar, automobiles, motorcycles, blank film and photographic plates.

London commentators generally considered it "not too bad a budget" for the "little man," even though he will be hit by the sugar and tobacco tax increases.

The tobacco federation of the British empire announced that the tobacco duty would be passed on to the consumer, with consequent increases on all types of tobacco.

The average pack of cigarettes made of American tobacco here now costs one shilling, about 24 cents.

The new taxes forced down automobile and tobacco shares in after hours market trading. There was little dealing however, until the reception of the budget by the general public could be learned.

Hearing Tonight On Police Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—(AP)—Proponents hoped today that tomorrow morning would find the Kansas City police bill back on the floor of the house, ready to start its rocky journey to the senate—or oblivion.

There were serious doubts in some quarters, however, that the bill would come out. The judiciary committee at the close of tonight's third and last public hearing.

One backer of the bill to place Kansas City's police department under state rule, said that even if proponents took only 15 minutes or so for rebuttal, it still would mean an executive committee meeting of several hours before the bill could be reported out.

Both proponents and opponents of the bill will close their arguments tonight. Sponsors have been allotted an hour and a half closing argument time. There was no indication here who would appear against the measure tonight.

Sedalia Symphony To Give Concert Tonight

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Sedalia Symphony orchestra will give a special concert in the auditorium of Lincoln high school, under the direction of Abe Rosenthal, who also will appear as soloist.

In addition to Mr. Rosenthal's solo violin numbers, a fine orchestral program has been arranged. The selections will include the works of the famed masters as well as noted contemporary composers. This is the first time that a concert has been presented by the symphony at Lincoln high school, so that Negroes of the community may have an opportunity to hear the orchestra.

Space will be reserved for white citizens who attend. The charge for the tickets is nominal, and they may be obtained at the door.

Atterbury Case To Jury Today

Insurance Angle By Prosecution As Death Motive

CANON CITY, Colo., April 25.—(AP)—The case of Dr. Raymond L. Atterbury, charged with choking his wife to death, may go late today to a jury that heard him described variously as a man weakened by successive operations and as one capable of lifting an injured woman.

The presentation of rebuttal testimony was concluded last night after the 40 year old osteopathic physician testified four hours and 15 minutes. District Judge James L. Cooper will instruct the jury after today's closing arguments by District Attorney E. M. Eagleton and Defense Attorney Felix O'Neill.

Under Colorado law the death penalty cannot be asked in a murder case based on circumstantial evidence.

Dr. Atterbury told of finding the body of his 31 year old wife, Nona, lying at the foot of their basement stairway when he returned home from a night visit to his office on Dec. 21. He denied he suggested to neighbors that his wife died of a broken neck.

On cross examination, the defendant testified he had undergone three operations in 1938 that limited him to his professional duties.

Eagleton called as a rebuttal witness Mrs. R. A. Zimmerman, a Lincoln Park ranch wife who was injured in a Canon City automobile accident last October.

"Picked Up" Woman
"Dr. Atterbury came over, picked me up, carried me across the street and started with me up the stairs of his office," Mrs. Zimmerman testified. "I weigh 140 pounds."

Recalled to the stand by O'Neill, the osteopath testified he was not acquainted with Mrs. Zimmerman. Dr. Atterbury recalled helping some men carry an injured woman from the street in October, 1938.

"I walked beside them," Miss Melva Anthony, cashier in the Jones theater, then was called by the state.

"I saw it clearly from the theater ticket booth," she said.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bruce were the neighbors who testified Dr. Atterbury called them to his home and told them that "Nona fell downstairs. I think Nona broke her neck."

Testimony regarding the osteopath's physical condition grew out of the state's attempt to establish as a motive in the case the osteopath's need for money. The state presented witnesses Saturday to show Dr. Atterbury would receive $15,000 insurance in the event of his wife's death.

The defendant readily agreed his 1938 income was below that of 1937, and explained he had been handicapped professionally by the operations.

Asked by O'Neill if he knew of "any time in your life when you did not have financial trouble," Dr. Atterbury replied:
"No, I never did."

"How did you feel when you saw your wife on the stairway?"
"I have no words to express how I felt. I was shocked."

An objection by Eagleton blocked further answer by the defendant.

More Expended By Relief Groups

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—A summary of expenditures by agencies disbursing funds under emergency relief appropriation acts of 1937 and 1938 disclosed today $4,048,255 more had been spent during the fiscal period July 1, 1938 to March 31, 1939, than during the entire 1938 fiscal year.

During fiscal year 1938 total expenses were $2,001,240,379. For the first nine months of the current fiscal year the total was $2,005,288,634. The federal fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30.

The expenditures, by states, for the full 1938 year and for the nine-months period of the 1939 year, included: Missouri, $51,767,011 and $60,450,784.

Better Homes Show Opens Monday Night

Many Exhibits And Popular Vaudeville Are Highlights

"It's the best show I ever saw," "I'm going to see plenty of this show," "Surprised me, I didn't think they'd have anything like this," and similar comments were made by attendants at the Sedalia National Homes Show and Exposition, which opened Monday night, for a week at the Coliseum, Missouri State Fair Grounds.

Every comment heard on the street this morning was favorable and some merchants who at first were hesitant in cooperating with the show, expressed their pleasure at being among the participants.

Colorful and well-arranged displays of fifty exhibitors fill the arena of the coliseum. An hour long stage show is a feature of the exposition.

Twenty variegated and highly entertaining vaudeville numbers are presented by a group of entertainers, regularly billed as headliners on circuit stage shows seen in the large cities. The stage attraction is given each matinee and evening, for the duration of the exposition, which continues through Saturday, on a large and professionally equipped and decorated stage, erected especially for the homes show and exposition.

The coliseum is gaily decorated with big silk chandeliers, banners and flags.

Variety of Exhibits

The exhibits include booths of building materials, electrical equipment, woodwork, paints and varnishes, modern plumbing and heating equipment, household supplies, in addition to floral and shabby displays—everything for home building, furnishings and decorations.

Furniture made by the students in the manual training department of Smith-Cotton high school forms a special exhibit. A fully stocked county store is the display arranged by the American Legion.

An exhibit showing the steps in the production of a newspaper page attracted much attention at the show Monday night, and a delight to the children is the toy railroad display of the Missouri Pacific.

Missouri Employment Booth
There are numerous concessions, among them the ice cream concession for the benefit of the Girl Scouts. The Missouri State Employment Service has a booth, where information and statistics are furnished those interested.

The exposition will be open to the school children, free of charge, this afternoon. The board of education has declared a holiday for the afternoon so they can attend.

The Sedalia National Homes Show and Exposition is sponsored by the local federation of labor.

Proposes Exemptions Under Wage-Hour Law

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—The House Labor committee overwhelmingly approved a series of amendments to the wage-hour law today to liberalize its application to agricultural labor and grant numerous exemptions.

By a vote of 16 to 2, Chairman Norton (N-J) said, the committee approved an omnibus bill which would, among other changes, exempt so-called "white collar" workers receiving as much as $200 monthly from both the wage and hour provisions of the act.

Jail Recommendations By Many Grand Juries

The present county jail, 220 South Lamine avenue, always good for a paragraph in any Pettis county grand jury report, has had that distinction for a great many years. As far back as April, 1891, this same jail building was in need of repairs, according to a grand jury report on file in the circuit court. A strange coincidence too is that the report, picked out of the file by circuit clerk Bryan Howe the other day, was signed by William Courtney, foreman. He was the father of William R. Courtney, foreman of the grand jury which adjourned Monday afternoon.

The report of that date reads: "We the Grand Jury of Pettis county Missouri, make the following report to Hon Jno. E. Ryland, judge of the criminal court."

"We visited the county jail and find the inmates thereof reasonably well satisfied as to treatment and provision furnished and that the jail is in as good a sanitary condition as possible under the circumstances."

"The jail building is entirely too small and the ventilation exceedingly poor. New water closets are needed, new stable, coal and wood house also. We further report the present jail and accommodations therein furnished

Fair Officials In Assurance Of Clean Shows

Grand Jury Finds Effort Exerted To Prevent Gambling

A Pettis county grand jury which investigated reports of indecent shows, gambling and liquor sales at the Missouri State Fair last fall, reported late Monday afternoon that it found no basis for indictments.

"We have made a thorough investigation," the jury's report said. "It is our opinion that the Fair authorities have made a conscientious effort to suppress gambling and so far as we can ascertain there was no violation of the liquor laws."

"Regarding immoral shows we find such shows did exist, and that they were conducted in a 'sub-rosa' manner, apart and aside from the regular shows. We do not believe that the State Fair officials had knowledge of these."

Violation of Contract

The report added that fair officials gave assurance they would make a diligent effort to prevent such shows in the future. The jury said that it was felt that such shows were conducted in violation of a contract signed by the carnival manager and the Missouri State Fair, and that the fault lies in the manager of the carnival rather than in the Fair officials.

The jury also reported that it had made a thorough and conscientious effort to obtain evidence as to any gambling which may exist in the county, but that the evidence obtained was insufficient to bring any indictments.

The jury inspected various public buildings in the county. It followed the custom of a long line of Pettis county grand juries in stating the county jail should be replaced by a new building. They also said "the lights on both porches of the court house are in bad order and the floors of the porches need repairs."

Compliments County Home

The jury also reported on the county home. It said "we consider the county home is unusually well managed." It recommended that the wooden shingles on the building be covered with asphalt shingles.

The grand jury also examined various other phases of the county's business, finding no evidence to warrant any indictments.

The jurors also commented on the co-operation they received, saying "throughout our session we have been accommodated by the prompt service of any subpoenas which we have issued, and we have had the co-operation of the Prosecuting Attorney in all matters."

For Grouping Welfare, Works And Lending

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt submitted to congress today a sweeping government reorganization plan calling for creation of three new federal agencies by merging welfare, works and lending functions.

A fourth point of the plan, first to be projected under the recently enacted government reorganization act, calls for transfer of the budget bureau from the treasury to the executive office.

A new federal security agency would be created, as well as a federal works agency and a federal loan agency.

The chief executive estimated the reorganization plan would result in an annual saving of from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. He placed the present overhead of all the agencies concerned at about $235,000,000.

"Certain of these economies can be brought about almost immediately," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "others will require a painstaking and gradual readjustment in the machinery and business practices of the government."

"Any such estimate is incomplete, however, without reference to the corresponding savings which will follow in the states and cities through the recommended consolidation of the federal services with which they cooperate, and the improved efficiency and convenience which will be felt by citizens all over the nation, many of whom will be able to find in a single office many of the services now scattered in several places. These economies will undoubtedly exceed the direct savings in the federal budget."

The plan becomes effective at the end of 60 days unless both houses of congress vote against it.

Under the security agency would be grouped the social security board, now an independent establishment; the U. S. employment service, now in the department of labor; the office of education, now in the department of the interior; the public health service, now in the treasury department; the national youth administration, now under the works progress administration, and the civilian conservation corps, now independent.

In the new federal works agency would be grouped the WPA except for the youth administration; the public works administration and U. S. housing authority, now under the interior; the bureau of public roads, now under agriculture; the public buildings branch of the treasury's procurement division, and the branch of building management of the national park service no far as it is concerned with public buildings which it operates for other departments or agencies, now under interior.

Would Change Title

The name of the works progress administration would be changed to works projects administration "in order to make its title more descriptive of its major purpose," the president explained.

Agencies For Lending

Agencies under the federal loan agency would be the reconstruction finance corporation, the electric home and farm authority, federal home loan bank board, federal

Defense Measure To White House

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—The senate approved and sent to the White House today a $508,789,824 appropriation for army defense activities during the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

Of the total, $94,737,281 will go for the purchase of about 600 modern fighting planes. Another $53,173,100 will be spent for such equipment as semi-automatic rifles, tanks and anti-aircraft guns.

As finally passed, the bill carried $7,116,986 less than the sum recommended by the war department but $52,987,628 more than the similar appropriation measure for the current fiscal period.

Biggest Of All Markets Is Being Neglected

Attention to markets for the national production has of late been so centered on the foreign outlets that a very significant report of the Social Security Board has gone almost without notice.

This report shows clearly, from figures about which there can be no dispute, that the purchasing power of the average American wage-worker is sadly below what it should be. Wages credited to the old-age insurance accounts of more than 30,157,694 covered workers in 1937 totaled $26,825,366,241, an average of $890.

Even if this figure had included all wages paid to these workers, even wages above $3,000 (not covered by the act), the average would have been only $975. Only three per cent of the workers received over $3,000 and against this must be balanced some $3,000-or-better incomes received from more than one employer, which do come under the act.

So it is fair to conclude that more than 30,000,000 workers worked throughout 1937 (a better year than 1938) for $890 apiece.

Inasmuch as social workers are unanimous that a family needs $2,000 a year to live in ordinary health and comfort, it is all too plain why surpluses of basic commodities pile up.

People just can't afford to buy them. It is unlikely that the average of the remainder of employed workers is higher than those covered, for those not covered include farm and service workers, whose cash income is notoriously small.

Now there is a market worth developing! Thirty million Americans whose income is less than $900 a year! What wheat could they consume, what milk could they drink, what cotton could they wear, if that income could be raised even to $1,500 instead of $900.

Such a move does not necessarily imply quick or arbitrary rises in hourly or weekly wage rates. Many of the people who received the pitifully small average income of $890 undoubtedly work on impressive hourly and weekly rates. But they don't work enough weeks, or enough days to have received a decent income at the end of the year.

For instance, 4,412,090 employees in 1937 received total wages of less than $99. That doesn't mean that they are receiving less than $2 a week; it obviously means that they worked only a few weeks of the year.

One hears talk of the "great Chinese market" which bought just short of $50,000,000 worth of our goods in 1937.

What is it beside the possibilities of increasing this 26-billion dollar income of our own lowest-paid people to, say 50 billions?

At a time when foreign complications are demanding our attention so insistently, we must not forget the really big market which is at the same time our greatest national problem.

American anti-aircraft guns are reported to be effective at a height of 15,000 feet with considerable regularity.

The English plane, supermarine "Spitfire," classed as one of the best British ships, utilizes a wooden fixed pitch propeller.

It is reported that four out of every five automobile accidents occur on dry roads in clear weather. During bad weather, most motorists drive slower and pedestrians are more careful.

Kissing The Chains

A more utterly wasted life than that of Henry Scrivens it would be hard to imagine.

This man spent 44 of his 78 years behind the gray walls of the South Carolina penitentiary. Freed in 1924 under a suspended sentence, Scrivens had been so long accustomed to prison life that he could not face the world. He asked to be locked up again.

He died the other day of a heart attack, inside the same walls that bounded the only world in which he really felt at home.

The humblest of free men can look back at things accomplished, even if it is only ditches dug or streets swept clean.

No matter how ill the world has rewarded them, such men can look upon the face of the earth and say, "Here are the marks of the labor of my hands."

That is something. Many believe it is everything.

But the Scrivenses, thousands of them, have cheated themselves of the soundest satisfaction life offers. Therein lies their tragedy.

Escape From Reality

The real world about us is grim and stark. But we must face it.

Have international affairs turned from treaties, and conferences, and sanity, to stark force and naked power politics? We must face it, and work constantly for a return to decency.

Is the domestic situation discouraging, with 10,000,000 still unemployed despite six years of heroic effort to get them back to work? We must face it and work faithfully and untiringly to change it.

Another psychologist has warned us against living in a dream world. This time it is Dr. Edward Strecker of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. He says there is danger of "a mammoth orgy of indulging ourselves in a kind of temporary insanity by all going crazy together." He means, by taking refuge in a pool of crowd-mindedness, and living in phantasy and unreality.

Nobody can be blamed in turning occasionally to phantasy and unreality for occasional relief from the bitter realities of the day. The danger comes only when this world is confused with the real one, and seems itself to be the real one.

So They Say

The progress of our political car is not helped by the clamor of back-seat drivers who point out the apparent smoothness of the detours of compromise and subterfuge, and complain of the speed of our going.—President Roosevelt.

I thought they were like theater tickets, one for each.—Tyrone Power, movie hero, buying wedding license.

Humanity sails a troubled sea. Your duty is to determine those qualities of spirit that achieved American independence and then to live that spirit as your own.—Mrs. Henry M. Roberts, Jr., D. A. R., president general.

An employer has no right to put his men in an organization which he chooses even though he might make a wiser choice than his workers.—Chairman J. Warren Madden of National Labor Relations Board.

Consider the situation of the newspapers if war really comes. A constructive critic, I suppose, would suggest that the newspapers gang up against the current war-mongering and so try to prevent a khaki election, but it is probably too late for that.—Henry L. Mencken, Baltimore editor.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — There is a long chance that President Roosevelt will return the visit of the British King and Queen next fall.

Many ifs are attached to this possibility and nothing may come of it. No President has ever made such a trip, and much as Roosevelt loves to kick over precedents, this is one that can't be broken lightly.

The memory of Woodrow Wilson's unhappy experience still is too fresh in the mind of the country. The wartime President journeyed to Europe under entirely different circumstances, but with world conditions what they are, a Presidential junket even for social purposes would be certain to arouse suspicions as to what was behind it.

Certainly the Axis powers would view the trip with deep misgivings and charge ulterior motives.

In the end the President's decision will depend on a combination of factors: the state of Europe, public sentiment at home, business trends and political developments.

Whether he goes or not, however, it is significant that Roosevelt has discussed the idea with intimates and manifested the liveliest interest in the venture.

It appeals strongly to all his highly developed instincts for drama. Even though it may remain only a dream, it is a glamorous one that he will mull over in many a secret moment.

Overworked Secretary
The President of the United States is a powerful person, but he is no different than any other boss when it comes to trouble with a temperamental clerical staff.

The other morning as Steve Early, overworked White House secretary, was holding his daily conference with newsmen, his phone rang sharply and Steve shouted to his secretary in an outer office, "Take care of that." A moment later she dashed in saying, "It's the President, he wants to talk to you."

"Tell him I'm not in," snapped Steve.

The girl departed but was back in another moment. "The President says he wants to talk to you," she said, "and for you to drop whatever you are doing and to get on the phone."

Scowling, Steve picked up the receiver, said grumpily, "Yes . . ."

Supreme Court Notes

All nine chairs behind the Supreme bench are now occupied. Save for one week in February, there has been at least one vacancy since December, 1937, when Cardozo first was taken sick . . .

The head rest on Justice Frankfurter's chair is different from all the others; it is a tight, round pad, like a chair arm . . . Two newsmen who cover the Court daily have switched from disliking to admiring Justice Hugo Black . . .

Though Justice Reed is moving very gradually from left to right, he is still far from McReynolds and Butler, the lone dissenters of today . . . During a recent hearing, Butler yawned three times in five minutes . . . Black sent a page boy for a glass of water. This made Frankfurter thirsty, and he sent his boy for a glass of water . . .

Stone, on Black's left, whispered across Black to Frankfurter . . . All this by-play was headed by Donald Richberg, wearing striped trousers on the sidelines.

Roosevelt's Next Speech
FDR will make what promises to be his most important economic speech of the year on May 22 at a convention of the American Retail Federation. Behind that date is this:

Roosevelt declined an invitation from the United States Chamber of Commerce and expects that organization, as usual, to start throwing brickbats at his fiscal and spending policies. The Chamber of Commerce crowd is plenty sore that the President refused to address them.

Roosevelt decided to make his big speech before the Retailers largely because the Federation has a progressive and forward-looking record. It backed social security and other New Deal legislation, and, of course, is mainly interested in promoting consumer purchasing power.

Tommy Corcoran and Harry Hopkins secretly investigated the Federation and recommended that "the chief" accept the invitation. As a result, Roosevelt phoned Louis E. Kirstein, who as an official of Filene's of Boston is the boss of son John Roosevelt, also chairman of the Federation's board, that he would accept. That was about 3 p. m. on April 14, and by 4:30, when the word got around, Sears Roebuck's General Robert Wood, who is adviser to Harry Hopkins, and Senator O'Mahoney also accepted invitations.

GOP House Leader Joe Martin also will speak, on "Problems That Persist." It will be one of his rare outside speeches. Hopkins will speak if his health permits. The American Retail Federation is made up of 200,000 retailers, and this will be its first convention. Theme of the meeting will be the relationship of the retailer to national policy. In his speech, Roosevelt expects to reveal his current attitude toward business.

Note — The Federation was formed because some retailers felt they weren't being adequately represented by the economic theories preached by the Chamber of Commerce. It is a comparatively new organization, founded in April, 1935.

Mysterious Corcoran
In arranging for Roosevelt's speech before the American Retail Federation, Tom Corcoran phoned one of its officials and told him to come over and discuss the plans in advance. Tommy went into a long explanation of how to locate him at the RFC Building.

"I'll be in room number 1017," he said, "the name of Mr. Talley. Assistant to Director's Special Assistant" will be on the door. Bang your fist on the door several times and wait a minute until I say, "Go to hell." Then knock louder three more times and I'll let you in."

This system was carried out and it worked.

Telephone Diplomacy
One stock which should not suffer from the war scare is A. T. and T. For the telephone company is profiting from modern streamlined diplomacy. Roosevelt confers with his European ambassadors two and three times a day, while the State Department telephones constantly to Europe and South America.

Mexican Ambassador Castillo Najera called Mexico City several times a day during the recent oil controversy discussions, rate, $13.50 for three minutes.

When Brazilian Foreign Minister Aranha was here last month, he conferred with State Department officials in the morning, then called President Vargas in Rio to report at length. The rate, $21 for three minutes. Argentine Ambassador Espil phones his foreign office in Buenos Aires frequently, at the same rate.

Raising a Family

We All Have The Desire to "Bust Loose"

I am going to quote again that time-worn adage: "Sow an act and reap a habit; sow a habit and reap a character."

We all understand, I think, that this is true, so now I can go on with my sermon.

There are times when an adult says to himself that some particular craving just has to be satisfied. ONCE. Mother must break her rule never, never to let herself be lured into reading a "daring" novel.

Finally her very repression gets to the stage where she must give in or burst. She reads one, throws it in the fire, feels as though a safety-valve had opened and that's that. It is out of her system to stay.

Father wonders just how it would feel to play bridge for a half a cent. It costs him a couple of dollars. He goes home, sleeps virtuously and knows he never will be tempted again. His thrill was not as great as he had hoped but he won't have to do it again.

Children are a lot like that. They get a notion about things, are prompted by consuming curiosity, and one day they take the plunge; against orders, of course.

The apples on the tree across the fence far more alluring than the ones in the fruit dish on the sideboard. Just one taste and the imp in the youngster is satisfied.

This is dangerous work in several ways, naturally. First, because the inhibition against temptation will give way more easily, like the broken bush, the second time it is pushed aside.

However, there are many things in a child's behavior, even serious offenses, that may be classed as mere spontaneous combustion, or rather the opening of a valve before the pressure gets to the explosion point and blows up.

Tempted to "Experiment"

Johnny wants to try out the car. He is not allowed, of course. One day he backs it out of the garage and drives it in again. Betsy decides to paint her bureau red. Mother comes home and swoons when she sees it.

Both Johnny and his sister are getting something out of their systems, on unconquerable urge to try something once. They are not different today because they have transgressed. In both cases they need some "turkey talk," but neither deserves to be branded as a hopeless sinner.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a letter begin with an apology for not having written sooner?

2. Is "Well, I must stop now and get to work" a good way to close a letter?

3. Can a friendly letter be too long?

4. If you type, is it better to write your friends on the typewriter than with pen and ink?

5. If your husband or wife is away on vacation should you fill your letters with all the things that have gone wrong — or try to make them cheerful?

What would you do if—

(a) Write it on plain note paper in pen and ink?

(b) Write it on the typewriter?

(c) Write it by hand on colored stationery?

Answers

1. No.

2. No.

3. Yes.

4. Yes. For it is easier for them to read.

5. Make them light and cheerful.

Sedalia Girl In Bed; Year Is Up

Mildred Wilkerson, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Wilkerson, 223 East Howard avenue, was the center of interest Sunday morning when she left her bed at the Mercy hospital in Kansas City for the first time in almost a year, and attended Sunday school at the Central Christian church, 2700 Wabash avenue.

The little girl has been undergoing treatment at the hospital for a calcium deficiency, which has made it necessary for her to remain in bed. She went to the church and back to the hospital in an ambulance.

She was the center of attention from the members of the intermediate boys' and girls' classes of the Sunday school, who have taken an interest in her almost since she arrived here. They gave her a corsage and a box of candy.

Mildred may be able to return to her home in Sedalia this week. A new story concerning her long-awaited visit to Sunday school appeared on the front page of the Kansas City Times Monday morning.

SERIAL STORY

BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, already, Hope is in love with Betty, wants to tell her so as they return from the canyon battle. But he remembers that Starr has the Saturday night date.

CHAPTER IX

"I KNOW I suggested it," Betty Mary was saying into her telephone, "but I think the celebration will have to be changed. Hope. Because I have a new idea.

Now listen—you and Sheridan come to my hotel at 6 o'clock, for dinner. I have already ordered it. . . . No, I won't go out with you two. I don't want to be seen with you yet. I want to stay under cover. That's my new idea."

The argument lasted another five minutes, but in the end Messrs. Sheridan Starr and Hope Kildare of the U. S. Border Patrol entered the Paso del Norte Hotel burdened with gifts.

"I feel like Santa Claus looks," Sheridan admitted, behind his huge box of roses.

"You mean you look like Santa Claus feels," Hope grinned at his friend. "Me, I bring Mexican pralines, and a purse hand-woven by Indians. Flowers wilt and die, ha!"

But Betty Mary was touched by all of the gifts. She almost forgot dinner in her prolonged enthusiasm. Her eyes took on a misty look when she thanked the boys seriously, and told them they were the bravest, finest gentlemen she had ever known.

"Even if it's not so it sounds great, Betty Mary," Hope declared. "I hope we can keep you fooled. Anyway I hope I can. Sherry, he's just posing, really. He's just a flat-foot cop at heart. Me, I'm romantic, and handsome, and—"

"And garrulous, and lazy, and impressed by a senorita he met in Juarez, Betty Mary," big Sherry interrupted. "He's not to be trusted."

"I am! I mean I'm not!" Hope was tangled now. "I just said she was a pretty girl, is all. Anyway, that was a month ago and—"

"Sh-h-h-h, stop jabbering!" Betty Mary commanded. "Especially about another girl. I shall be jealous. If there really is a senorita in Juarez, Officer Kildare, I shall call and insult her, so there! I'm going to Juarez myself."

"What for? Let's go tonight. To a cabaret, or a theater. Hunh?"

"NO, I'm serious. Sit down, boys, and let's talk business while dinner is coming up. Now, I really am going into Mexico, this very night. I'm going under cover, too. I mean, I shall go as Miss Jordan, but I certainly won't know you. I am going to be a giddy tourist asking questions and sketching pictures. I have studied art a little. I have a plan."

"Yeah? What sort of plan?" Hope smirked, knowingly.

"I'm going to get more information on Mr. Luis Barro."

"No!"

"Yes."

"Now listen here, Betty Mary, you—"

"You listen yourself. Both of you. Those prisoners you took admitted they were Barro's customers, didn't they? Barro sent them over, you said. Just as I learned, in advance. Well, we still didn't capture Barro, and trouble with him may keep on indefinitely unless we get more information as to his movements, and do something to put a stop to him. See? He must be l

Annual Salon Of 'Photo' Prints

The Central Missouri Salon of Photography, an organization composed of the camera clubs of Jefferson City, Columbia, Carrollton and Sedalia, is having its first annual salon of photographic prints at the Lass-Truitt Studio at 518 South Ohio avenue. This exhibition, which is being shown all this week, is open day and night to the public.

The organization is sponsored by the Sedalia Camera club. Each contributing club has submitted a number of prints to the salon. These prints were judged by a distinguished Kansas City jury headed by Richard Crain, who is an Associate of the Royal Photographic Society. About half of the prints submitted were rejected and Sedalia was fortunate enough to have 53% of its prints accepted for exhibition. Of the eleven prize winners, five were from Sedalia. E. A. Strelow won second prize while J. J. McGrath, Elgin Smith, "Bill" Padgett and Mrs. Leon H. Archias, Jr. each won an honorable mention ribbon.

After the prints have been exhibited here, they will be sent around the circuit of the contributing clubs and will be shown in the other three cities mentioned.

A special meeting of the Sedalia Camera club will be held in conjunction with this salon on Thursday night at the Lass-Truitt Studio to which all interested are invited to attend and to bring their cameras. An opportunity will be given to everyone to take pictures at this meeting.

BEER helps even those who do not drink it! To the tune of a million dollars a day nation-wide, beer tax revenue reaches back into every community, to help pay for relief, for public works, for education... and to lift a burden that would otherwise rest directly on the taxpayers.

To this, add a million new jobs made by beer. And a 100 million dollar farm market.

Fenske won the event last year in 2:10.7, the Drake record. The New Yorker beat Cunningham by two strides to win the Knights of Columbus 1,000 in 2:08.8, a world record. The validity of Borican's claim to a world mark was clouded, however, by the starter's contention that the winner beat the gun off the mark.

Advance To Both Wheat And Corn

CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP)—The first definite signs of a setback in winter wheat crop prospects since the growing season began caused today the sharpest advance registered by wheat prices in weeks.

July and September wheat, representing the new crop, rose a full cent a bushel as less optimistic crop reports came in from various sections of the southwest. Signs of damage inflicted on wheat during the fall and early winter drought are appearing, crop advisers said, and there were reports that high winds and dust are threatening grain in some sections. Rain is needed badly in many districts.

Wheat closed ½ to 1½ cent higher than yesterday, May 69½c to 69¾c, July 69½c to 69¾c; corn ¼ to ½ cent up, May 48½c to 48¾c, July 50c to 50½c; oats ¼ to ½ cent higher.

Mr. Gunder Declares He would

"It Was my Lucky Day When

I Began The Use of KruGon"

Food, after it is swallowed, remains in the stomach for variable periods depending upon the quan-

ntity eaten, the general condition of the stomach and the health of the individual. For an ordinary meal the time of discharge begins in fifteen minutes and continues for three hours. If this length of time is exceeded something is wrong with the stomach. If a person is upset by certain emotions such as hatred, fear, anger, greed or jealousy the food is not properly digested and prepared for the bowel. When this upset occurs and elimination of the food from the system is interfered with,

KruGon will prove a wonderful advantage.

For example, read what Mr. J.

E. Gunder, a well known highly respected farmer who resides on

Route No. 1, Green Ridge, Missouri (near Sedalia), said recently in a statement reaching the Mc-

Farland and Robinson Drug Company, 104 West Main St., this city:

"I would not be without Kru-

Gon if it cost $5.00 per box," said

Mr. Gunder. "For fifteen years

I had been troubled with constipation. Poisons settled in my muscular pains I was miserable

The Eighth Grade graduates were each presented a small gift

Due to illness, the teacher, Miss

Gas Tax Hike

Is Voted Down

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25—

(AP)—A bill hiking Missouri's gas tax from 2 to 3 cents and halving passenger car license fees failed

by three votes to gain the constitutional majority required for passage in the House Monday. The vote was 73 for, 32 against.

Sponsors indicated a re-consideration vote would be attempted.

Highway department officials have estimated the proposal would increase road fund reserves $2,- 500,000 a year.

The measure was called up suddenly by its author, Rep. R. E.

Searcy (D) Shannon county, and roll call taken without debate.

When the bill was perfected, opponents argued that the people already had expressed themselves on a 3-cent gas tax by voting down

Proposition No. six last November.

Mr. Roosevelt also proposed the transfer of the farm credit administration, the federal farm mortgage corporation and the commodity credit corporation and associated agencies to the agriculture department.

The president called the extensive regroupings his reorganization plan No. 1.

Submission of the president's proposal was expected to touch off a new congressional battle over government reorganization, legislative leaders predicting a host of job-holders would move on the capitol at once fearful that mergers would mean demotion or loss of positions.

"In these days of ruthless attempts to destroy Democratic government," the president said in his message transmitting the plan, "it is badly asserted that Democracies must always be weak in order to be Democratic at all; and that, therefore, it will be easy to crush all free states out of existence."

"Confident in our republic's 150 years of successful resistance to all subversive attempts upon it, whether from without or within, nevertheless we must be constantly alert to the importance of keeping the tools of American Democracy on our date."

"It is our responsibility to make sure that the peoples' government is in condition to carry out the peoples' will, promptly, effectively, without waste or lost motion. We are not free if our administration is weak. But we are free if we know, and others know, that we are strong; that we can be tough as well as tender-hearted; and that what the American people decide to do can and will be done, capably and effectively, with the best national equipment that modern organizing ability can supply in a country where management and organization is so well understood in private affairs."

Mr. Roosevelt said his whole purpose in submitting the plan was to "improve the administrative management of the republic and I feel confident that our nation is united in this central purpose, regardless of differences upon details."

He added that the plan was concerned with the "practical necessity of reducing the number of agencies which report directly to the president and also of giving the president assistance in dealing with the executive branch by the modern means of administrative management."

The president said he thought the budget bureau, together with research and investigational activities, should be consolidated and placed under the white house rather than under a department. In that connection, he proposed the transfer of the budget bureau functions of the central statistical board.

He also proposed to transfer to the president's direct control the national resources committee, now independent, and to consolidate with it by transfer from the commerce department the functions of the federal employment stabilization office. The consolidated unit would be known as the national resources planning board and it would be a permanent statutory unit.

"In this manner," he said, "the president will be given for the first time, direct access to the three principal necessary management agencies of government. None of the three belong in any existing department, with their assistance, and with this reorganization, it will be possible for the president to continue the task of making investigations of the organization of the government in order to control expenditures and increase efficiency."

The president said the four-point plan represented two years of study and conformed to methods of executive administration used by large private enterprises. "Finally," he asserted, "it will save a sum of money large in comparison with the existing overhead of the agencies involved."

"I trust, therefore," he concluded, "that the congress will view the plan as a whole and make it possible to take the first step in improving the executive administration of the government of the United States."

Submission of reorganization was expected by congressional leaders to keep congress in session at least until June 25. Adjournment earlier would hold over the plans until next year.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, who previously had expressed hope for June 15 adjournment, called it "a good guess, unfortunately," that the session would be extended.

Barkley outlined Mr. Roosevelt's works proposal as being somewhat similar to legislation introduced by Senator Byrnes (D-SC). When word of the president's intention reached capitol hill yesterday, the senate postponed consideration of the Byrnes bill.

Republican senators who want to restore relief supervision to the states may lead an attack on the proposed public works agency. There have been indications that Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization program would not be limited to his initial recommendations.

aroused to further sacrifice," Sir John said in announcing the huge total for defense expenditures. "There must be additional taxation," he warned an intent house. At least half of the defense costs will be met by loans. Britain will spend nearly 50 per cent of an estimated budget of nearly 1,300,000,000 pounds for defense.

Sir John disclosed that 5,000,000 pounds ($25,000,000) had been set aside for expenditures on food reserves in the new budget for the 1939-40 fiscal year which began April 1.

The chancellor reduced theater admission taxes by one penny (two cents).

He announced 24,000,000 pounds would have to be raised by new taxation.

The basic duty on tobacco will be raised from 9 shillings, six pence per pound to eleven shillings sixpence ($2.87) per lb.

The duty on sugar will be increased by one farthing (half a cent) a pound effective today.

The sugar increase will mean an extra two shillings and four pence (58 cents) on each 100 pounds of sugar imported.

The chancellor struck at the pocketbooks of those with big incomes by increasing the surtax a further five per cent on incomes up to 8,000 pounds ($40,000) and a further ten per cent on incomes over 8,000 pounds.

(Hitherto the rate on the high-est 2,000 pounds of an income of 8,000 pounds combining basic income tax and surtax, has been 9 shillings sixpence per pound or 47½ per cent. It now becomes 52½ per cent.)

(Hitherto the rate on the 2,000 pounds between 8,000 and 10,000 pounds has been 52½ per cent. It becomes 62½ per cent.)

Simon said the changes in taxation would bring the total revenue for 1939-40 to 942,600,000 pounds ($4,713,000,000) providing a surplus of 156,000 pounds (780,000).

The chancellor concluded: "The expenditure to meet defense needs is approved by the general sense of the country and of Parliament. Heavy as the burden is, the country is willing to pay for world peace."

Two In Escape Are Recaptured

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—(AP)—With two convicts who escaped Sunday night from the state prison saw mill near Jefferson City in custody, police searched all known hideouts today for a third who escaped a trap.

Christ Herdub, 29, St. Louis, and Ted Lurie, 38, Kansas City, were captured without resistance as they stepped from an empty building here last night.

Ora Lewis, 42, who was serving a life term for the murder of a St. Louis policeman in 1916, eluded the officers by slipping out of the building before their arrival. He was reported heavily armed.

Lieut. Otto Proske said the convicts were surrounded after a patrolman on the beat received a tip where they were hiding. Herdub was serving five years for robbery and Lurie was under a 15-year sentence for robbery, but was caught a short distance from the prison.

organization in fighting adverse legislation. He was one of a committee of five elected from fraternal organizations to assist in preparing a fraternal code now before the legislature.

Monday Afternoon

Ray B. Lucas, state insurance commissioner, was one of the principal speakers Monday afternoon. He expressed pleasure at having an opportunity to address the convention, stating that there had been a time when a prior commissioner would not have been at home at a fraternal organization convention. Mr. Lucas discussed freely, from a general standpoint, the fraternal insurance code, which is now pending in the legislature.

Paul J. Leyhe, president of the Missouri Fraternal congress and state manager of the Aid Association for Lutherans, told of the work of the state fraternal congress in preparing the insurance code for presentation to the state legislature.

Dr. A. D. Cloyd, medical director, of Omaha, Neb., spoke of the difficulties confronting life insurance companies and of the improvements made in medicine during the last fifty years.

Morning Session

After an invocation by the Rev. J. M. Russell, of Sedalia, this morning, short talks were made by Ellsworth Green, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, Sterling C. Holston, of Los Angeles and Horace L. Rosenblum, Omaha, Neb., publicity director.

Mr. Holston, who is a national director and state manager of California, spoke on the future of Woodcraft, and the need for young men to take up the cudgels.

Mr. Rosenblum explained the duties of a publicity director, and the activities of the 8,000 camps in forty-four states.

"There have been times when insurance would not feel at home in a fraternal insurance society's convention, but I am one insurance man who does feel at home in this convention," Judge Ray B. Lucas, state superintendent of insurance, told the state convention of the Woodmen of the World at the Hotel Bothwell yesterday afternoon.

Judge Lucas also said that "now is a good time for the fraternalists to have an insurance code passed." The insurance code, he said, "is fair and it will perpetuate the life of the fraternalists."

Legal Reserve Basis

"By December 31, 1940, every fraternal society must have all its certificates on a legal reserve basis," he announced. "The U. S. has 7 per cent of the population of the world, but it owns 70 per cent of the world life insurance, which amounts to 110 billion dollars."

Paul J. Leyhe, president of the Missouri fraternal congress and state manager of the Aid Association for Lutherans, told of the work of the state fraternal congress in preparing the insurance code for presentation before the state legislature. "Fraternalism is making a strong comeback and will be as strong in the future as in the past," he said.

Dr. A. D. Cloyd, medical director, WOW, Omaha, Neb., spoke of the difficulties confronting life insurance companies and of improvements made in medicine during the last fifty years.

Reveals Secrets In Poison Ring

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—(AP)—Behind locked doors, a boarding-house keeper poured forth in Italian today secrets that may save her from the electric chair as a confessed member of an insurance-murder poison ring.

She told her story guardedly, however, for her son's life has been threatened by someone who fears her disclosures. Detectives refused to divulge her information.

The informer is Mrs. Carina Favato, 44-year-old immigrant.

Confronted with evidence a judge said was mounting "higher and higher," she halted her trial Friday by pleading guilty to three murders.

She assumed blame for the death of her stepson, 17-year-old Philip Ingrao, her common-law husband and another man to collect insurance money.

Mrs. Favato was questioned from yesterday morning until early today. Judge Edwin O. Lewis had announced that the extent of her disclosures would decide whether she gets the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The district attorney said questioning would go "on and on" until he has a complete story of the insurance-murder ring.

Joseph Pantorelli, 25, Mrs. Favato's son, kept close to his mother and urged her to talk freely in defiance of threats he said he received by telephone and mail. The telephone calls were from a woman. Police believe she was a "professional widow" and perhaps a leader of the widespread poison plot.

Mrs. Favato's questioners confronted her with Herman Petrillo, convicted of the poison slaying of a WPA worker. The jury made the death sentence mandatory.

House Passes Gas Hike Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., April 25.—(AP)—The House reconsidered and passed today by an 86 to 47 vote the searby bill raising the state gas tax from 2 to 3 cents and slicing passenger car license fees in half—a measure estimated to produce $2,500,000 a year.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The proposal failed yesterday by three votes to gain the constitutional majority of 86.

Rep. John D. Taylor (D), "average Missouri car driver will come out about even under this bill. The decrease in his license fee will about offset the increased gasoline taxes he must pay."

"However," Taylor added "motorists from outside the state will pay a little more revenue for use of our highways."

Rep. William B. Weakley (D), Pike county said "it is not our intention to raise a lot more revenue by this measure. We are now unable to match about $2,000,000 of federal funds allotted to the state each year and the additional money this bill should produce will enable us to use all of our federal grant."

British Outline Military Bill

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—The British cabinet meeting in extraordinary session was reliably reported tonight to have outlined a new compulsory military service bill while the nation learned of vast indirect tax levies imposed to meet an arms-swollen budget.

It was understood that the new compulsory military service bill would provide for: 1. Mandatory physical training. 2. Enforced elementary military training for men between 19 and 21.

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—Britain was reported in usually well-informed quarters to have sent a warning to Adolf Hitler that conscription would be introduced in Britain if President Roosevelt's ten-year peace appeal were rejected by Germany.

The message was said to have been carried to Berlin by Sir Neville Henderson despite repeated official statements that the ambassador's surprise return to Berlin today had "no special significance."

Soviet Russia was reported by diplomatic sources today to have joined France in urging Britain to employ compulsory military training as her first step in bulwarking an alliance against Rome and Berlin.

It was reported Sir William Seeds, British ambassador in Moscow, messaged Prime Minister Chamberlain emphasizing the Soviet view.

British labor circles were seriously disturbed by the report Britain was threatening conscription.

They also argued Hitler was unlikely to change his speech because of any warning from Whitehall.

On the other hand foreign office officials theorized only a threat of conscription would make Hitler realize how great a revolution had taken place in British foreign policy.

Names Leiserson To Labor Board

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated William M. Leiserson of Ohio to be a member of the National Labor Relations board to succeed Donald Wakefield Smith of Pennsylvania.

The latter's term expired several months ago. He was given a recess appointment last fall, but the president never submitted his nomination to the senate when congress convened.

The American Federation of Labor had opposed Smith, contending he was prejudiced in favor of the CIO.

Leiserson was nominated for a term of five years dating from August 27, 1938.

The other NLRB members are Chairman Madden and Edwin S. Smith.

AFL officials said they had not been consulted by the administration about the possibility of shifting Leiserson to the labor board.

CIO officials declined to say whether they had been consulted. Since 1934, Leiserson has been a member of the mediation board created by congress to administer the railway labor act.

The 56-year-old economist who was born in Estonia and came to the United States in 1890, attended the University of Wisconsin and Columbia university.

Blaze Damages Service Station

Fire, of unknown origin, broke out near the roof of the filling station managed by Clark Stith Twenty-second street and highway 65, late this afternoon.

Both fire departments answered a call to the city limits, just across the road from the filling station, and the blaze was soon under control.

The fire departments two pumps were used, as there was no city water near. A well in the neighborhood would have been used had the blaze gained further headway.

The station is owned by Tom Herrick and leased to Stith.

Recall Member Of Claims Mission

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—Dr. Victor Huecking, German member of the mixed claims commission, has quit the tribunal in the midst of its deliberations over World War sabotage claims. It was learned today, and has been recalled permanently to Berlin.

An authoritative source said his departure "undoubtedly meant that Germany had scant hope of winning the cases." This source saw in the recall a possible German move to prevent any decision in the near future.

The claims total $50,000,000 and were made by Americans against Germany as a result of the destruction of a railroad terminal at Black Tom, N. J., and an arsenal at Kingsland, N. J., before the United States entered the World War.

Insurance Head Addresses WOW

Ray B. Lucas, Jefferson City, Missouri State Insurance Superintendent, addressing delegates to the WOW convention at Hotel Bothwell Monday afternoon.

Propose Social Security Operate Through Courts

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—(P)—A house sub-committee began a study today aimed at preparation of a bill to return administration of Missouri's social security program to the county courts.

Rep. W. Randall Smart (D) of Kansas City, named the sub-committee last night from the house social security committee which he heads.

"They will report back next Monday," Smart said, "at which time we'll probably take some action on the matter."

"In connection with this study," he added, "we have invited social security administrator George I. Haworth to appear before the committee Thursday to explain the necessity of any increase in the $2,000,000 appropriation the house has passed for administration of the state's social security program."

The state social security commission recently pointed out that the federal government is matching Missouri's old-age assistance dollars now only on a monthly basis because it regards that appropriation as insufficient and warned that all federal aid might be lost unless it is increased.

At noon a luncheon to which each contributed was served.

Six new members were introduced to the club. They are Mrs. J. Franklin Gander, Mrs. A. B. Carber, Mrs. W. C. Sheridan, Mrs. Earl Homan, Mrs. Tobitha Miller and Mrs. Jane Cramer.

The afternoon business session was presided over by Mrs. Steele, the president and Mrs. McLeister led the program on "Friendship." Games were played under the direction of Mrs. Specker.

Mrs. L. Cutter will be hostess at the next meeting, May 18.
